

Faux Painting 2021: Hot Trends and Ideas

Painting the interior of your home is an easy and quick way to update the look of any room. Not only can it help you feel more at home and comfortable in your space, but it can also add value to your home when done correctly!

But what if you want to try something with a more modern look? If so, consider faux painting. This trend is one of the hottest interior looks for 2021. It can add depth, texture, and dimension to your walls, creating an engaging and interesting design that will set you apart.

There are endless possibilities to add faux painting techniques and your color preferences to your next update. And we're here to answer all your questions about faux painting 2021.

What is Faux Painting?

At its most basic, faux painting is using paint and some basic tools to mimic the look of another material, such as granite or marble. It can be used to create a pattern or wallpaper look as well. If you've seen stencils, color washing, or sponged walls before, you've seen faux painting!

But while the look may seem effortless, the techniques behind many faux painting trends can be complex. Depending on the look you're after, you should consider hiring a professional to take on some of the more difficult projects.

If you're interested in learning more about the different types of paint, and which one you should choose for your next project, check out our blog post on the topic.

Top Faux Painting Trends

If you're looking at some fresh and new faux painting ideas, check out our top picks below! Many of them don't require any special faux painting products and can be achieved with the painting equipment you already own.

Concrete

One of the most modern and fresh takes on faux painting is to replicate concrete. This unique and striking look will create a more industrial, cool feeling to any room.

It's created with multiple layers of black, white, and gray paint and adding in glaze to achieve that unique look. However, it is a more complicated and time-consuming trend than many others.

Strié

If you've ever considered a fabric wall covering, you'd soon discover that the prices can shock you. But with a base paint color, some glaze, and a long bristle brush, you can achieve a similar look. Your base coat and top coat need to have some contrast so that the effect can be seen.

If you want to check out the trending paint colors for 2021, check out this gallery. Perhaps one will stand out to you and give you some faux painting inspiration!

Patterns

Adding a pattern to your wall can be a striking and bold statement. There are also many options. Thin, horizontal stripes can help you to achieve a mid-century modern look. Or give that idea a twist and go diagonal.

There are many faux painting tips out there, but be sure to avoid anything too dated. Otherwise, you may find yourself wanting to redo a recently completed project.

Think Luxury

You can also consider faux painting trends that replicate high-end materials such as marble, leather, or granite. If you truly want to mimic the look of these natural materials, pick your paint colors with care. You can make your space truly unique by faux painting your ceiling as well as your walls.

Want something more farmhouse-style? Antiquing, limewash, crackling, or wood grain can help you achieve that aesthetic as well.

Ready to Incorporate Faux Painting 2021?

With all the time you've been spending at home this winter, you're probably ready for an update to at least one of your rooms. If so, consider faux painting to help you achieve a personalized and interesting design.

After all, there are many options and colors to help you personalize any space or room. Get in touch with us today to help you with all your faux painting 2021 needs!